The East End Blues Couldn't Connect With Twirler Ford.

AN INTERESTING EXHIBITION

The Capitol City Boys Won Only One of the Three Games. The Score.

Again it was two southpaws in the box, and the game of ball at Broad Street Park yesterday afternoon between the East End Blues and the Brownics was such an exhibition as the people like to see. It was snappy from the beginning, and all of the players did their share. But Woody Ford, a Monros twirler, who went in the box for the Brownies, was the puzzle that could not be solved. He kept his wits together, and be injected so many peculiar little jumps into the sphere that the batters wer weeseling from the start. Only two hits were gotten off him, and it is a matter of doubt with some if one of these could not have been handled. Jack Anthony pasted offe that went to the free country for three sucks. Stout got the other hit. The ball, after leaving Stout's bat, sailed out to deep center, and some think that Sharp could have pulled it down. But Sharp is a good runner and plays the outlied well. In case of a doubt of the kind, the butter is favored.

Seven to Folir. guessing from the start.

Seven to Four. The score was seven to four, with the Brownies holding onto the big end. The four runs that came over for the Blues were not earned, an error on the part of Gruner permitting two of them, and the same thing occurring when the other two tailled.

the same thing occurring when the other two tailled.

The game yesterday was to decide the championship between the Capital City League, and the thin City League, and the championship laurels come into the came of the boys who have all through the season amused the public at the park. Burnett pitched a very good game, but not as well as he did on the first day. And Ford was invincible. That's the cause of the trouble. And Ford has auburn locks. 'Twas said when he went in the box that he would meet his Waterloo, but those flery locks were too wagm a proposition for the Blues.

The official score will tell the rest:

Brownies.

a Wad of Paper.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RALEIGH, N. C., September 21.—Chas.
Doane, a young white man eighteen years old, was brought from Yancey county and committeed to the penitentiary to serve five years for the killing of his brother.
They were out hunting, Charles shot several times at game without effect, and his little twelve-years-old brother began ridiculing him. Charles became angry, loaded his gun with powder and a wad of paper and fired at the little boy, saying at the same time that he would teach him how well he could shoot. The wad of paper struck the boy on the side of the head, killing him almost instantly.

The older brother was horrified and deciared that he only intended to frighten his little brother. The court found him guilty of murder in the second degree.

AGAINST HEARST

Judge Griggs, One of His Supporters, Opposed for Committee Chairmanship.

MR. MARTIN COULD GET IT

But the Senator Heretofore Has Said He Does Not Desire the Honor.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., September 21. Democratic politicians are beginning to take some little interest in the choice of a successor to Representative Cowherd. as Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee. That gentleman, while leading the fight in the last campaign was defeated for re-election himself, a fate which also very nearly overtook Chairman Babcock, of the Republican Committee. To date there has been but one avowed candidate for the place, and that is Judge Griggs of Georgia, who held the position and made rather a creditable fight in the congressional contest of 1905. In that campaign the bulk of the money contributed to the Democratic Committee, was furnished by William Randolph Hearst, and from that day to this Judge Griggs and Secretary Edwards have been doing everything that their ingenuity can conceive to promote the interests of Hearst. When that gentleman was a candidate for the Presidential nomination they were about the most active supporters he had. Judge Griggs was not a candidate for re-election at that time, and had he been his support of Hearst would have cost him his place. Secretary Edwards was a candidate, and but for the fact that there was no one who was available to oppose him, he too, would have lost out. As it was he was elected only by narrow margin. He says he will not be a candidate for re-election, that he is tired of the game. can Committee. To date there has been Oppose Judge Griggs.

There will be a great deal of opposi-tion to Judge Griggs in this fight and the prediction is freely made that he will have a tough proposition to go up against if he tries to capture the place. The position is a thankless one and it genif he tries to capture the place. The position is a thankles one and it generally goes begging. But so strong is the opposition of the vast majority of Democratic congressmen to Hearst, that they will oppose any man for the chairmanship who has been identified with him, so long as there is any hope of getting any one else to run for the place. There is no reason why the position should not be one much sought after. In a campaign where the prospects for success are really good it is a place worth having. In the event of success at the polis it makes the man who takes it a plong it makes the man who takes it a prominent factor in national affairs. With the people demograding rate legislation, and tariff revision, and a dozen cother things which the Republicans propose to ignore, some of the more observant Democrats are predicting an excellent outlook for the congressional election next fall.

The Biggest Man.

The Biggest Man. If there should be a Democratic victory, the man who would lead its hosts to that victory would easily be the biggest man in the publol eye, in the Democratic ranks. After so many years of wandering through the wilderness of defeat, the man who could marshal the Democratic hosts for victory and lead feat, the man who could marshal the Democratic hosts for victory and lead them into the promised political land of Canaan, would indeed be a Moses to his party, and one who would get more than a sight of that promised land. Therefore, If there shall be a bright outlook for the Democrats in 1006 the chairmanship is indeed worth while. There have been repeated suggestions that Senator Martin is the man for the place, especially since his splendid organization in Virginia made its good showing at the primary. He could get the place without serious opposition if he wanted it, but heretofore he has advised his friends that he did not care for the honor.

This much is certain, that if there is any other good Democrat who wants the place, Judge Griggs will have a hard time getting it.

An Arkansas Democrat in this city said to-day that there was not a shadow of doubt that Governor Joff Davis, who is making a contest for the seat in the Senate now held by Senator Berry, wou.-be elected. To use the language of the Democrat mentioned, "Senator Berry will not know he was a candidate when the votes are counted." Senator Berry is the senior Democrat on the Committee on Commerce, and Senator Martin is second in rank.

The defeat of the former would mean that the Virginia senator would hold first minority place on this committee, which is very nearly the most important of all the committees of the Senate.
